Poets & Quants: Behind Tulane's Burkenroad Reports

June 10, 2019

Burkenroad Reports, the Freeman School's acclaimed equity research program, was recently profiled in Poets & Quants for Undergrads. The business school news website highlights the work of the program's student analysts and quotes founder Peter Ricchiuti on the program's role in providing students with real-world experience.

> By the end of the semester, students produce 14 deliverables including reports on financial modeling, assumptions, valuation techniques, peer comparisons, and a projection of a 12-month target price. Additionally, the reports also include company history and an outlook for both the company and its industry.

> “Employers truly value experiential learning,” Ricchiuti explains. “And it doesn’t get any more hands-on than Burkenroad Reports. The report itself opens doors and provides a great example of the candidate’s writing and analytical skills as well as their ability to put out a quality, timely product as a member of a team.”

To read the article in its entirety, visit poetsandquantsforundergrads.com:

https://poetsandquantsforundergrads.com/2019/06/06/behind-tulane-freema…

> Behind Tulane’s Burkenroad Reports