Inside Higher Ed: 3 Questions for Tulane’s Ashley Francis

June 18, 2025

Ashley Francis, assistant dean of the Stewart Center for Professional and Executive Education, was interviewed by Inside Higher Ed about the strategy behind Freeman's Online MBA program.

> “Tulane University’s Freeman School of Business launched its online M.B.A. program as part of a comprehensive strategy complementing the school’s portfolio of programs directed towards working professionals and meeting students where they are. It was conceptualized in response to both an evolving institutional culture and a clear demand for accessible, high-quality business education.”
