Meet the MBA Class of ’27: Ulas Cini

December 1, 2025

Ulas Cini

Ulas Cini is a JD/MBA candidate with a background in International Relations, Economics, and Slavic Studies. At Connecticut College, he developed a strong foundation in research and analysis, skills that now support his legal and business training. Ulas has a particular interest in corporate and transactional law, where precision, clarity, and strategy intersect. His academic and professional experiences have sharpened his ability to interpret complex information, draft well-reasoned documents, and provide actionable solutions for clients. Through his MBA, he is enhancing his understanding of finance and organizational strategy, preparing to advise businesses on legal and commercial decisions. Curious and disciplined, Ulas brings a rigorous, research-driven approach to advancing corporate outcomes.
