WVUE Fox 8: Cassidy, others focus on the energy industry during New Orleans summit

October 17, 2025

Eric Smith, professor of practice and associate director of the Tulane Energy Institute, was interviewed by WVUE Fox 8 about Louisiana's energy industry in the wake of an energy security summit hosted by the American Council for Capital Formation.

“The energy sector is going fine until we trip up ourselves. We’re the low-cost producers, for example, of natural gas in the world. We have a great history of getting these energy export panels online. The problem is we don’t control the vessels, we don’t control the funding, and we really have issues with the logistics.”

To read the story in its entirety, visit fox8live.com:

https://www.fox8live.com/2025/10/16/cassidy-others-focus-energy-industry-during-new-orleans-summit/