William Bellina
Disciplined finance professional with exceptional analytical rigor, proven execution excellence and competitive drive. Seeking accounting or finance roles leveraging quantitative expertise, operational precision and commitment to measurable impact.

Undergraduate Institution:
Nicholls State University

Fun fact about yourself:
I was a Division I cross-country and track and field athlete for four years.

Work experience you're most proud of:
Working as a freelance camera operator for ESPN+, specifically being chosen to film the High School Baseball National Championships in Omaha, Nebraska.

Why did you want to pursue an MBA:
I wanted to expand my professional network and explore potential opportunities in the finance industry.

Why did you choose Freeman:
I was attracted to Freeman for its networking opportunities and academic reputation. I ultimately chose Freeman because the staff seemed truly invested in my decision to attend and I loved the resources available to us.

Where do you want to be in five years:
In five years, I would want to be a senior member/manager in an accounting firm or corporate finance department.

What do you like to do in your spare time:
Run, read and watch movies or TV.
